

Meeting Your Students' Gluten-Free Needs

What are the gluten-free requirements for K-12 schools?

- Schools must accommodate students with special dietary needs, including gluten-free diets when medically necessary (Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Section 504)
- Dietary requirements should be specified in the student's Individual Education (IEP)/504 plan

How can schools help their students with gluten-free needs?

- Ensure the student's condition is fully documented with kitchen, office, and nursing staff
- Identify ingredients with gluten and emphasize the importance of preventing cross-contamination with kitchen staff
- Offer an assortment of appealing menu options, mirroring traditional menu options when possible (foods provided for gluten-free dietary restrictions do not have to comply with the standard fortification requirement)
- Create an environment where gluten-free students feel welcome, included, and comfortable about asking food safety questions
